

The US Charitable Trust

It has been an unforgettable and challenging year to say the least. 2020 was an incredibly challenging year for everyone. The US charity team knew that we had to keep the energy, motivation and aspirations up in our young people.

We did the best we could staying within the Covid 19 safe guarding regulations to support our young people in providing activities such as the 2020 summer programme. Which included a variation of activities aimed to promote wellbeing and to develop transferable skills. Our emphasis was to support our online programmes with in person projects which continued the aim of giving students security and confidence alongside employability skills. Within the half term and summer programmes we ran debate and public speaking, conferences, dinners and award ceremonies, set design and sports fixtures. Offering fun, creative skills building activities we hoped would inspire young people to look forward and use this time to prepare for their futures.

Christmas food parcels were a great success, with more than 50 given to young people and their families. Due to the pandemic, it has been a even harder year for many families. The US charity team contacted family and friends asking them to donate money to this incredible cause. We partnered with Glaxo Smith Klein and Young Brent Foundation in providing sports equipment, toothbrush and toothpaste for our packages. The teamwork was fantastic with the help of our alumni network. We are so grateful for all the generous donations and it is heart-warming to know that in such little time, we all came together and to spread the happiness and put a smile on young people's faces.

There are exciting new projects beginning in the new year which will focus on skills development and careers' preparation for an inspiring future. Looking ahead the focus will be on skill development, careers and mental health. We will be delivering programmes with the expanding network of our employers/companies. With the support from US, young people will be able to thrive with confidence once they leave school.

At US charity, we are family and we make sure that our young people are always our number one priority. We will always listen, adapt and support those who need US the most.
